FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

KlingStubbins appoints leaders for national roles

PHILADELPHIA, PA – February 11, 2008 – KlingStubbins, one of the largest architectural, engineering, interior, planning, and landscape architecture firms in the nation, is pleased to announce that the following individuals were promoted to the following key leadership roles at the firm:

Marc Clair, AIA, was appointed National Director of Business Development and Marketing. In his role, he will continue to spearhead global marketing strategies and initiatives across each of the firm's offices and markets. Benefiting from 30 years of related industry experience, he will also be responsible for cultivating and maintaining industry relationships. Mr. Clair joined the firm as a principal and the Director of Marketing and Sales in 2003.

Paul Leonard, PE, LEED® AP, was tapped to serve as the firm's Director of Engineering and will focus on integrated engineering system design. He will also be responsible for all MEP engineering, leading the team and sustainable solutions for projects. A 15-year member with the firm, Mr. Leonard most recently held the position of Engineering Design Principal, where he worked with clients establishing global engineering criteria and conceptual engineering direction for major projects.

John Neilson, AIA, was appointed the Market Sector Leader for KlingStubbins' Science + Technology Projects, overseeing the pursuit and development of projects for the research and development industry. Mr. Neilson possesses more than 25 years experience in the management and design of highly specialized laboratory facilities and spaces and previously served as Managing Principal of KlingStubbins' Raleigh, NC, office.

Kimberly R. Williams was promoted as the firm's National Director of Interiors. She will lead KlingStubbins' national interior practice, ensuring design excellence and continued success in the achievement of client expectations. With more than 25 years of expertise, Ms. Williams will continue to deliver outstanding, strategic design solutions for clients with diverse demands. A 14-year principal of KlingStubbins, Ms. Williams previously served as Director of Interiors for the Philadelphia office.

KlingStubbins provides professional services in all major disciplines within the realm of architecture, engineering, interiors, planning, and landscape architecture. The firm consists of more than 550 professionals in its Cambridge, MA; Las Vegas, NV; Philadelphia, PA; Raleigh, NC; San Francisco, CA; and Washington, DC offices.
