Kling Announces New Corporate/Commercial Sector Leader

PHILADELPHIA, PA – March 15, 2006 – Kling, one of the nation’s leading architecture, engineering, interiors, and planning firms, is pleased to announce Richard J. Farley, AIA, PE, as the new leader for Kling’s Corporate/Commercial Sector.

Mr. Farley has been with Kling for 28 years. As a Principal and Project Director, he has provided hands-on leadership for several landmark projects in the Greater Philadelphia Area including the Bell Atlantic Tower in Philadelphia; the SAP USA Headquarters in Newtown Square, PA; the Dow Jones Headquarters in Princeton, NJ; the Merrill Lynch Office and Training Facility in Princeton, NJ; the US Postal Service’s New Facilities in Southwest Philadelphia; and the urban revitalization of downtown Wilmington, DE through several recent office and residential projects with the Buccini / Pollin Group. Other current clients include Brandywine Realty Trust, PA Department of General Services / Lincoln University, the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, Amgen, and DELDOT.

“Mr. Farley’s consistently high level of leadership and delivery in his areas of responsibility made him the prime choice for the position of advancing Kling’s reach and reputation in the Corporate/Commercial arena regionally, nationally, and internationally,” said Kling CEO Robert G. Thompson, AIA.

In addition to Kling, Mr. Farley is an award-winning faculty member at the University of Pennsylvania, where he has taught graduate courses in design, architectural structures, and high-technology for buildings. He is also a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, holding both a Master of Architecture and Master of Science Engineering from the esteemed institution, and received an additional Master of Architecture in the Studio of Louis I. Kahn at the University. Mr. Farley received his Bachelor of Engineering in Civil Engineering from Manhattan College in New York.
